

As a semi-retired journalist who edited two small-town weekly newspapers, I know how important it is to keep a large number of viable communications vehicles alive and well. I am outraged at what has already happened with media consolidation and it is intolerable that the FCC can be allowed to further erode media diversity.